In 1949, Rev. Mircea Todercu, a priest in exile from Communist Romania reported that Our Lady had appeared to a saintly Romanian woman in a series of five apparitions. In the course of these apparitions, Our Lady repeated the messages of Fatima and La Salette with special emphasis on the conduct of the clergy in the face of persecution. At that time many priests were defecting to the nationalist Orthodox church set up by the Kremlin. In light of recent efforts to unite the Russian Orthodox Church with the Novus Ordo church in Russia, the Blessed Mother's message is more urgent today than ever before. "The grave hour in which the Church will suffer much has come... Struggle, struggle, with trust because I have received from the Father the power to destroy the head and the pride of Satan who wishes to destroy the Church and your souls... You who struggle and sacrifice yourselves with trust in my heart are few. But if only two souls will be found who will struggle with firm trust in these days full of sufferings, the Father will show them through my Heart the fruits of my sufferings... Pray the Rosary... Don't think of life and food but of the protection and strength of my Son... Do not give in. Do not let other priests enter into the churches of my Son, priests who have apostatized from the true Faith and who have joined with those of the other faith... The suffering of my Heart is so great when I see the priests who have apostatized from the true faith and my Son... You priests who must confess the Faith, who must be the pillars of the Church of my Son, you to whom the souls of the faithful have been entrusted in order for you to open to them the Way of Truth and to bring them on the road of eternal life, behold how you have wounded my Heart by renouncing my Son and the Heavenly Father. You have stepped in the ways of falsehood and of death, and instead of edifying souls, you have sought and do seek to ruin the Church and to lose souls. You are those who strike continually the Mystical Body of my Son. "Behold, my sorrow is indescribably great when I look toward you because you despise even the Vicar of my Son, the one who is the father of all the true faithful; you who will not even recognize my Son as your King and Lord of the world and who will not listen to Him and will not submit to Him. Behold, I have come to tell you clearly the word: I wish you to return, to become again the children of the true Church, pastors of the souls entrusted to your priesthood because my Son has placed you under my protection. I have come to communicate all these things so that you will know what to do and you will know what the Heavenly Father wishes from you. I communicate these things to the soul of my Heart who cries, prays, sacrifices itself who suffers day and night for your sins, the sins of you who strike so much the justice of the Heavenly Father.

"If you will not listen to my Heart; if you will not believe in my words addressed to you through this suffering soul; if you will not return, the anger of the Heavenly Father will fall upon you. I ask prayers, sacrifices; I ask that you repair the insults committed against the Heavenly Father through apostasy, pride and your unbelief in His goodness and power, which He has over you through my Immaculate Heart..." (The complete text of this message is contained in "John Haffert's Russia Will Be Converted.")

Our Lady further requested devotion to her Immaculate Heart, daily recitation of the Rosary, the consecration of all churches and homes to her Immaculate Heart and promised protection to those who heeded her requests. Many of the faithful and their Traditionalist clergy today recommend and practice this devotion, yet they fail to expel apostates, heretics and schismatics from their midst and refuse their ministrations. Our Lady in this message ordered the Greek Catholic Church "not to separate from the Catholic Church even if the bishops should have to withstand death and shed their blood together with all the priests and faithful." This even though the Orthodox Church was supplied jurisdiction by the popes to minister to their own people, and their orders were generally considered to be valid. Canon E. J. Mahoney, Rev. Jean-Marie Herve and Rev. Charles Journet would even ascribe to the Orthodox a sort of "quasi-jurisdiction." But even that jurisdiction ceased with the death of Pope Pius XII, leaving us in the predicament in which we find ourselves today. And certainly we have not behaved as the Blessed Mother advised.

O Holy Mother, what have we done? How can we make reparation to you and your Divine Son?
